

Transforming the Police:

Towards Accountability and Trust

Douglas Brand, OBE, D Phil candidate, Centre for Criminology, University of Oxford, United Kingdom

After a long career as a police officer in England, Douglas took on a job as an international police advisor, first in Iraq, and later as a personal advisor to Inspector General of Kenya Police.

A Heather Coyne, Senior Security Sector Reform Officer for UN Special Envoy to Yemen

A Heather has a long career as an international advisor with a US military background. Based upon her work as a police advisor for International Security Assistant Force to Afghanistan (ISAF), she was employed as a police advisor to the UN mission in Afghanistan. She is currently working as a security sector advisor for the UN Special Envoy to Yemen.

Dr. hab. Janina Czapska, professor of the Jagiellonian University and head of the Department of Sociology of Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the Jagiellonian University in Kraków Janina specializes in police sciences. She is the head of a research team in the European project ICT4COP. She is the president of the programme board of the municipal programme for safety improvement Safe Kraków.

Tor Damkaas, Supt, Police University College, Peace Support Operations Unit, Norway

Tor is a police officer with more than forty years of experience in the police in Norway. He participated in international peace support operations in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Sierra Leone, Afghanistan, Indonesia, and Ukraine. Tor is a member of the ICT4COP research team and is responsible for the project's advisory group – Police Experts Network (PEN). He is currently working as an instructor at Norwegian Police University College in the training of future police peacekeepers.

Anna Giudice, crime prevention and criminal justice officer at the Justice Section,
Division of Operations, United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime

Anna has background in international human rights law and public international law and is currently responsible for programme development and implementation in the areas of police reform, victim support and violence against children. With over 20 years of experience, she has worked in a number of areas of the rule of law and access to justice over the years and with countries in Africa, Latin America and the Middle East. She leads UNODC's work on police reform, police oversight, accountability and integrity and use of force and firearms.

Dr. Tomasz Kwoka, academic employee of the Institute of Slavic Studies of the Jagiellonian University in Kraków

Tomasz has participated in the ICT4COP project since 2016 and is responsible for research concerning Serbia. He has a degree in Slavic studies and, in his academic work, he deals with Serbian and Lemko language and culture. Currently, he is working on his book on the history, culture and languages of multi-ethnic Vojvodina (an autonomous province in Serbia).

Sari Rautarinta, Police Officer (LOA), Training Specialist at Crises Management Centre (CMC), Finland

Sari is a police officer with a number of years of experience as a detective in the Finnish police as well as an international police advisor in Sudan, Afghanistan and a Human Rights & Gender advisor in Ukraine. She is currently working as a training specialist at Finland Crises Management Center in Helsinki.

Manjeet Singh, Supt, Norwegian Police University College

Manjeet is a police superintendent in Norway. Formerly, he worked as a first respondent in the police uniformed and tactical units. Currently, he is working as an instructor at Norwegian Police University College in Oslo.

Katarzyna Struzińska, research associate at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the Jagiellonian University in Kraków

Katarzyna holds three Master's degrees in Law, Russian Studies and Linguistics from the Jagiellonian University. Her main research interests revolve around police sciences, gender, and sociology of law. She works for the ICT4COP from its beginning and is responsible for research concerning Bosnia and Herzegovina.

Dr Goran Šimić, dean and professor at the Faculty of Law of University "Vitez" in Vitez, Bosnia and Herzegovina

Goran's research interests include criminal law, international criminal law and transitional justice. He has taught worldwide including Cambridge University, the University of Oslo, the University of Baghdad, Istanbul Commerce University and the University of Lublin.

Dr. hab. Aleksandra Wentkowska, professor of the University of Silesia in Katowice and assistant professor in the Chair of Theory and Philosophy of Law at the Faculty of Law and Administration of the University of Silesia in Katowice

Aleksandra has been granted scholarships -from a number of international institutions (e.g. the Hague Academy of International Law, the European University Institute in Florence) and has won many legal competitions, both Polish and international. Within the Erasmus programme, she has taught e.g. in the UK, Slovakia, Germany, Slovenia, Turkey, Lithuania, Ukraine and Taiwan. She has written over 100 academic publications, edited local and international European academic journals.

Dr Radomir Zekavica, full professor at the University of Criminal Investigation and Police Studies in Belgrade

Radomir obtained a Master's degree at the Faculty of Law of Belgrade University in 2001. In 2008, he obtained a Ph.D. at the Faculty of Law of Belgrade University, defending his dissertation on The Role of the Police in a Legal State (Rule of Law). He teaches several courses at the university undergraduate and Master's levels, namely, Introduction to Law (undergraduate level), Human Rights (undergraduate level), Police and Human Rights (Master's level).